Council may expand oval redevelopment

Gosford Council staff are investigating the possibility of expanding the proposed Woy Woy Oval Redevelopment Masterplan.

The issue was deferred at Council's ordinary meeting of Tuesday, July 2, for two weeks to give council staff time for their investigation.

Cr Gabby Bowles said there was a canteen and amenities block on the eastern side of the ground that is currently being used by Woy Woy Football Club and Woy Woy Cricket Club

Cr Bowles asked council officers to look into opportunities to incorporate an upgrade of this facility with the plans to replace the dilapidated referees' facilities.

Cr Bowles said this would see a "better multi-use facility that could accommodate more codes".

Through the Woy Woy Oval Redevelopment Masterplan, the staged development aims to provide an 800-seat grandstand, change rooms, referees' room, first aid room, media box and kiosks.

If adopted, it would also have a barbecue area, club house, storage areas, sportsground amenities, scoreboard and a commercial area for potential leases.

Landscaping features would include spectator mounding, shade areas and retractable fencing.

A major focus of the Masterplan is the integration of the facility with the CBD and creating a Woy Woy CBD hub with the ability to host regional sporting events.

This would involve the relocation of the car park from Oval Ave into the existing car park which would create additional parking spaces and timed parking for CBD users.

The Oval Ave car park would be transformed into a boulevard space allowing seating for the proposed cafe, a meeting space and an area that can be used for events such as markets.

Council has allocated $750,000 through the Capital Works Program and $1 million through the Infrastructure Reserve for the demolition and redevelopment of the grandstand.

A further $130,000 was allocated through the Capital Works program for the demolition and redevelopment of the Woy Woy Rugby Clubhouse.

School wants to keep supervised crossing

Woy Woy South Public School has called for a crossing supervisor to be retained when traffic lights are installed at the school crossing on Ocean Beach Rd later this year.

The school has been told the current supervisors will lose their jobs once the lights are installed.

School principal Mr Terry Greedy said he was concerned that the change would cause increased congestion along the road.

"The traffic lights will be operated by pushing a button on the light pole," Mr Greedy said.

"This will surely make travel by car down this road during peak periods in the morning and afternoon extremely slow as children press the button whenever they want to cross.

"At present, the ladies in charge of the crossing monitor traffic and hold children until there are a significant number of students ready to cross so that interruption to traffic flow is kept to a minimum.

"This will all change with control of the crossing in the hands of the pedestrians using the lights.

"Surely the sensible thing to do would be to retain the crossing ladies to control the lights during busy peak periods so that traffic flow is not significantly inconvenienced," Mr Greedy said.

Roads and Maritime Services (RMS) media officer Mr Ben

Tracey said the RMS believed the new traffic light crossing would help to improve pedestrian safety in the area and would not cause any serious issues.

"The lights will be installed as part of a number of safety improvements identified through RMS safety audits after the decommissioning of the speed camera on Ocean Beach Rd at Woy Woy," Mr Tracey said.

"A decision to install traffic lights was made after extensive stakeholder consultation with Woy Woy South Public School and the community."

Mr Tracey said the replacement of the school crossing supervisor would not be an issue, as the traffic lights would sufficiently replace her services.

"There is no RMS requirement to have a school crossing supervisor in locations where traffic lights are in place.

"A school crossing supervisor will be in place two weeks after the traffic lights are installed to teach school children how to safely cross at traffic lights," Mr Tracey said.

The RMS plan to install the traffic lights later this year and inform the community before work starts.

Wild weather weekend passes without incident

The volunteers at Marine Rescue Central Coast were on high alert over the weekend of June 20 and 21 following reports from the Bureau of Meteorology of gale force winds and rain predicted to intensify into Sunday and Monday.

Late Saturday afternoon, rescue vessel Central Coast 20 was on patrol when the radio base at Point Clare received a report of an un-manned jet-ski afloat off Half Tide Rocks.

While the rescue boat was en route to investigate or provide assistance, the search was called off as another report indicated that the jet-ski had been recovered by its owner.

On Saturday night, the rostered crew of Central Coast 20 was out in the poor conditions, taking the opportunity to hone their local knowledge and night navigation skills in the most unpleasant weather.

While there were a number of calls to the radio base over the weekend, they were mostly from hopeful boaties seeking weather updates.

Council investment market value increases

The latest Gosford Council Investment Report shown a steady increase in the market value of council securities.

Council has taken advantage of considerably narrow margins on floating rate notes and has sold its Westpac May 2016 floating rate notes at a premium above par.

The proceeds have been reinvested in a Westpac three year term deposition, which is expected to provide better overall returns over the upcoming years.

As at May, council's investment portfolio had a current market valuation of $52,891,516 on a face value of $60.635.931.

When compared to the previous month, all of the 10 structured securities held showed an increase in their market value.

The net market value increase for the period was $141,600.

Council's investment portfolio return outperformed the bank bill index benchmark during the month, with the figures standing at 7.38 per cent per annum and 3.07 per cent per annum respectively.

Council's portfolio is expected to return above benchmark returns if there are no further credit events within its CDO portfolio.

In his report, corporate services director Mr Nic Pasternatsky said this was because the CDO portfolio is currently valued at low levels.

Without marked-to-market influences, council's investment portfolios yielded 4.35 per cent per annum during the month, he said.

He said that all investments had been placed in accordance with council's investment policy, section 625 of the Local Government Act and the Revised Ministerial Investment Order gazetted 11 February 2011.

They also accorded with clause 212 of the Local Government (General) Regulations 2005 and the third party investment requirements of the Department Local Government Circular 06-70, he said.

He said it also continued to obtain independent financial advice on its investment portfolio in accordance with the Department of Local Government Circular of 16 September 2008.

Umina man in police pursuit at West Gosford

Investigations into a police pursuit are continuing after a Umina man failed to stop for police on Thursday, June 27.

At about 4:30pm, police observed a man driving a motor cycle west on Central coast Highway, West Gosford.

The man was driving behind an unmarked police vehicle.

As police turned left onto Brisbane Water Dr, the man passed the police vehicle on the left of the lane and accelerated away.

Police recorded the registration number of the motorcycle and activated their warning devices.

The man failed to stop and continued driving south on Brisbane Water Dr, Point Clare, for a short time before he attempted to pass another vehicle on the left.

He clipped the nearside mirror of this vehicle, lost control and collided with the rear nearside of a parked motor vehicle.

This collision caused the man and his motorcycle to leave the roadway.

He immediately jumped from the motorcycle and ran south on Brisbane Water Dr while the bike came to rest against a brick wall.

The man was pursued on foot by police for a short distance where he violently resisted police.

Police say he threw punches at them and continued to wrestle before he was sprayed with Oleoresin capsicum spray.

After a short struggle the man was handcuffed, placed under arrest and cautioned.

He was conveyed to Gosford

Police Station where police claim he made admissions to having used illegal drugs and a blood sample was obtained.

Is media policy too hard for Murdoch to stomach?

I must apologise for creating the impression that Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher followed John Major.

It was the other way around as Robert Mumford correctly states (Peninsula News, June 11).

My principal point was that Murdoch dominates elections by favouring candidates of his preference and that was the case with both Thatcher and Major.

Major had an unexpected victory over Neil Kinnocks' Labor, thanks to Murdoch paper The Sun.

As to Murdoch's preference in the forthcoming federal election, the News Limited newspapers' relentless daily refrain has been that the Gillard Government does everything wrong, or could it be that the proposed media diversity legislation is so hard to stomach?

The reality is quite different, both under Rudd and Gillard, in spite of the lack of expected mining tax revenue.

As Craig Emerson rightly pointed out on ABC's Q and A program aired on June 10, Australia's economy has a triple A rating with every significant rating agency in the world.

The OECD rates Australia as the best performer altogether.

Australian Government debt is one of the very lowest in the world. Yes, "spend, spend, spend", Rudd urged.

That Keynesian approach was clearly the right medicine, in spite of implementation errors by pink bat sub-contractors.

Let me quote John Howard: "When the current Prime Minister and the Treasurer and others tell you that the Australian economy is doing better than most, they are right." (Sydney Morning Herald, May 15).

Gillard is working hard to get the Gonski education funding reforms through.

Labor has significantly increased the childcare rebate which now delivers $7500 per child per year.

There is also the school kids' bonus of $410 per primary school child and $820 for secondary school kids to help eligible parents with the costs of sending kids to school.

The Gillard Government introduced the first paid parental leave scheme: 18 weeks of paid leave at around $600 per week.

This long-fought reform will benefit many Australian women.

The National Disability Insurance Scheme will create opportunity to thousands of people with a disability and provide assistance for their carers.

Labor has provided tens of billions of dollars into healthcare, delivering thousands of extra nurses, 90,000 more elective surgical places, 13,000 extra aged care places, 1.5 million teenage dental check-ups, 25 regional cancer centres, more general practitioners in regional areas and an increase in bulk billing form 67 per cent to 80 per cent.

The tax free threshold has been raised from $6000 to $18,200 removing one million of the lowest paid workers from the tax system.

Most importantly, the carbon price is driving down greenhouse gas emissions already and we are seeing serious investment in renewable energy.

Australia now has the largest marine parks in the world, the Murray Darling deal has been concluded and the Tasmanian forest agreement settled after 30 The National Broadband Network is in progress which is essential infrastructure for the 21st century.

Is Mr Mumford aware of the biggest increase in the pension in 100 years?

Should Australians tolerate a media mogul brainwashing voters and subverting the democratic information flow?

That is what is happening here. If Gillard is replaced by Rudd, that media diversification policy must remain part of the policy agenda, regardless of Rupert Murdoch's preferences.

I DON'T TRUST LABOR. LIBERAL, WE WILL SEE!

July 4, 2013 - 8:34AM Sean Nicholls, SMH

Labor's federal executive will seize control of the troubled NSW branch in a historic bid to force through difficult reforms aimed at stamping out corruption.

"It's time for the Labor Party to focus on the future and not the past, and this is what these changes do." said

Labor general secretary Sam Dastyari

July 4, 2013 - 8:14AM Sean Nicholls, SMH

The Clerk of the NSW Upper House, David Blunt, has called on the O'Farrell government to consider establishing a Parliamentary Standards Commissioner to improve how complaints about MPs are handled

July 5, 2013 - 4:09 a.m Kate Mcilwain and AAP, Illawarra Mercury

NSW Special Minister of State Chris Hartcher said Mr Rudd had "effectively called time on the Labor leadership of John Robertson".

The following was first published in Gosford Central Community News - January 17. 2011 page 9 and is repeated in response to the Prime Minister's new overt aversion to corruption Premier Keneally, how would you possibly explain to your constituents across NSW, why the Ministry for the Central Coast has been next to useless to us in the Gosford Local Government Area?

It is currently under the oversight of Labor Leader elect John Robertson one of your Cabinet Ministers.

I perceive a conflict of interest between John Robertson and the Labor Party members on Gosford City Council.

Perhaps he is simply exercising his Ministerial prerogative to do absolutely nothing about the years of "bad politics" which keeps Gosford City Council in power?

Gosford City Council "got off lightly" after being found by the State Coroner to be responsible for the deaths of five innocent people who died in Piles Creek at Somersby.

The compensation awarded the surviving family members was never enough to salve my conscience as a responsible ratepayer.

I have been complaining for years about the council prior to the deaths for not keeping proper records and not doing its job properly.

John Robertson and John Della Bosca, a local, among others have, while responsible Ministers, refused to accept as truth the often published allegations made over many years.

This culminated in the most instructive allegation that I have made several times, ie: "Gosford City Council misled the Coroner during his inquiry into the deaths of five people at Piles Creek, Somersby"

The council claimed it had no knowledge or experience in the use or application of concrete to protect the structural integrity of corrugated steel pipes.

My particular allegation was raised with our first law officer, Attorney General John Hatzistergos and supported with often published photographs, on November 30, 2010 at Ourimbah, to his great surprise. (See photo below).

There is a sad shortage of good Christian values, personal values and political will to correct these political sins against the people.

Labor has fellow party members on Gosford City Council.

Taxpayers like me, who are familiar with Section

232 of the Local Government Act, have had a gut full of the obvious conflict of interest which exists every time a constituent goes to the Minister for Local Government, currently Barbara Perry, with a complaint about a local council conducting the peoples' public business outside the legislation in place to ensure the council is not guilty of misgovernance.

There is no way Minister Barbara Perry will name fellow party members on the floor of State Parliament for fear the Labor Party will black ball her.

The Member for Lakemba and Mayor of Canterbury City Council, Robert Furolo is a prime example!

It follows that our local member for Gosford, Marie Andrews was not willing to stand up and expose the use of falsified instruments, a misleading development application 11923 / 2001 and the abuse of power Gosford City Council indulged in while it stood over my father in an attempt to have him apply for a change of use on his residential property.

All of this justified my complaints of corrupt conduct identifying Gosford City Council, conduct which the Labor Party has accommodated, conduct which I euphemistically identify because it is so widespread in NSW, as political sins against the people.

Labor Party members are already out and about seeking voter support for next March, yet they have for years ignored their civic duty to ensure that the business of the people conducted by our elected representatives and their party members is within the law!

This is an intentional attempt to combat the spin my taxes pay for each time a politician goes into print

It's now possible for women to succeed

With the events of recent times and the widely reported allegations concerning sexism and misogyny in Australia, I thought it time to do a little research on the subject of whether or not the notorious Glass Ceiling does in fact exist in this country.

My reading (and failing memory) reveals that many women have succeeded in politics and that over recent years we have seen: the first female governor general, the first female prime minister, two female speakers in the House of Representatives, a female recently appointed government leader in the Senate, female premiers, administrators and chief ministers in every state and territory (with the exception of South Australia) and a number of female capital city lord mayors.

The leader of the third largest political party in our country is a female as is the deputy leader of the Federal Opposition.

The richest person in Australia is female not to mention all of those other outstanding women who hold hugely important positions in every field of endeavour and who are far too numerous to attempt to mention here.

Statistically not good enough and I have no doubt whatsoever that women are discriminated against in whatever field they choose, but I think we should pause and have a look at how far we have come and recognise that it is now very possible for determined talented women to succeed in this country.

Most illegal arrivals granted residency

Linda Moverley is completely wrong when she says (Peninsula News, 24 Jun) that "most illegal arrivals don't come with valid reasons", and unsupported statements of this kind don't contribute to a rational discussion of the subject.

In fact, until recently, about 90 per cent of illegal arrivals were granted residency, after extremely rigorous scrutiny of their reasons.

This number has fallen recently because of the influx of Sri Lankans, many of whom admit candidly that they want to settle in Australia for financial reasons.

Several hundred of these have been immediately deported to Sri Lanka after a cursory (some say too cursory) examination.

Amusingly, she still insists that

The people rarely get it wrong

Unlike Klaas Woldring, (Peninsula News, May 27) I don't think media mogul Rupert Murdoch is really interested in politics.

I believe he would do a deal with the devil or Mao Tse Tung if there was a guid to be made.

In any case, politicians have beaten hostile newspapers; the most notable was Franklin Delano Roosevelt in his historic third term of office.

Another factor to consider is that most of the younger generation don't read newspapers and rarely watch television, so if they're idealistic, they will vote ALP or Green anyway.

In my book, in a democracy, the people are a good judge.

They rarely get it wrong.

If recognition means that local government can be freed from state government control, then it would be a good thing.

Where councils are governed by councillors of integrity and community purpose, the state could no longer impose their will and privileged power upon them.

Where people worship money there will always be corruption, so we need every weapon in the fight so that people of honesty and good will prevail.

Support group starts for colitis sufferers

A new support group for of the members, including the people with Crohn's disease and colitis has started at the Peninsula Community Centre on the last Saturday of each month from 11am to 1pm.

The group provides an opportunity for people with Crohn's or colitis to get together, share experiences, information and ideas.

Crohn's and colitis are chronic conditions of the bowel and most commonly are referred to as inflammatory bowel diseases.

Over 70,000 Australian men, women and children are diagnosed with a form of inflammatory bowel disease, with symptoms yet manageable, requiring immediate and specialised care.

"Crohn's and colitis can be diagnosed at any age, though it is most commonly diagnosed in people aged between 15 and 35 years when education, career and family building are at a peak," said community centre manager Ms Michelle Remy.

"There is currently no cure for Crohn's or colitis, so while we cross our fingers for a cure in the future, this group can offer support today," she said.

Judith Brophy from Crohn's and Colitis Australia said she was pleased to be involved with the Peninsula support group which offered advice and support for sufferers.

"Crohn's and Colitis Australia support groups are mutual aid groups, which means that all facilitator, are impacted by Crohn's or ulcerative colitis in some way," said Ms Brophy.

"Support group meetings provide a safe and supportive environment where individuals impacted by inflammatory bowel diseases can express themselves openly and receive support and understanding from others with similar experiences," she said.

"BACK" to School

So the kids are getting ready for the new school year, however with heavy bags and long lessons spent seated, it can make school a real struggle. A recent study published in the Australian Spine journal, investigated the link between backpacks and back pain in school children. Selected statistics include:

• The weight of the average backpack is heavier, proportionally, than the legal load-bearing limit for adults; • 79.1 per cent of children say their backpacks feel

• 65.7 per cent report feeling fatigued by the weight of their backpack; and,

• 46.1 per cent report back pain caused by their backpack.

Not just looking at pain and poor concentration at school but structurally, when adding an extra uneven load to a growing spine, it can have a great impact on your child's health and wellbeing in the

Therefore, for an item that is worn 5 days a week for the majority of the year, it's important to make sure it is properly suited to your child.

To avoid the back to school backache, the Chiropractors' Association recommends:

1. Backpacks should be no heavier than 10 per cent of a student's weight when packed;

2. Make sure the backpack is sturdy and appropriately sized - no wider than the student's chest;

3. Put comfort and fit at the top of the priority list, rather than good looks;

4. Choose a backpack with broad, padded shoulder straps

5. Use both shoulder straps – never sling the pack over one shoulder;

6. Use waist straps attached – they are there for a good reason 7. Don't wear the backpack any lower than the hollow of the lower back; 8. Don't overload the backpack – use school lockers and plan homework well in advance; and, 9. Place all heavy items at the base of the pack, close to the spine, for a better distribution of the weight. On top of these recommendations and to really help your child get back into the school year and enhance their potential to reach and maintain their optimum health, have your child checked by a Chiropractor, like many other parents have.

Senior students at Umina Public School have completed a mural on the school's newly-acquired community building.

The mural was completed under the Gosford Graffiti Art Project which is a community building program funded by the NSW Department of Family and Community Services and managed by the Gosford-Narara Community Centre

The Gosford Graffiti Art Project creates murals in graffiti hot spots in the Gosford LGA.

It aims to encourage young people to participate in the murals not only in the painting and design but also in the negotiation with business owners as to the subject matter of each mural.

The students at Umina Public School worked with professional artists Charlie Trivers, Loretta Devjak, Luke Shelley to design images around the theme of the ocean for the Beachside Centre

Students in Year 6 were then involved in the painting of the mural under the guidance of the local artists.

"It has been an unbelievable experience for our senior students who have enjoyed seeing their designs come to life on the side of the building," said teacher Ms Jo Baillie.

Little Theatre performs Dial M for Murder

Woy Woy Little Theatre will continue its annual classic play tradition by performing Dial M for Murder from July 19 to August 4.

The murder mystery play will feature an ensemble cast including Greg Eccleston as Tony, Sierra Phillips as Margot, Greg Buist as Max, John Lusty as Lesgate and Tony Burke as Inspector Hubbard.

The play, which centres around Tony who married for love and plans to kill for it, includes elements of danger, forbidden love and suspense.

Written in 1951 by three-hit-wonder playwright Frederick Knott, the play initially failed to find a producer to finance it on stage.

Instead, it was adapted to a 90 minute BBC TV production and, following its success was then staged by Warner Brothers.

Noted film director Alfred Hitchcock also directed a film adaption of the play in 1954, starring Ray Milland and Grace Kelly.

Woy Woy Little Theatre's production of Dial M for Murder is directed by Brendon Flynn with 10 performances to be held at the Peninsula Theatre in Woy Woy from July 19 to August 4.

Bays group holds art evening

The Bay's Community Group will hold its annual Wine, Cheese and Art evening at The Bays Community Hall on Saturday, July 13, from 7:30pm.

The event will see an exhibition by Peninsula painters Graeme Balchin, Karen Medcalf and Jan Purcell.

Graeme, who has entered works in the Archibald Prize, teaches art at the Gosford Regional Gallery and also from home.

After starting his working life as a sign writer, Graeme developed his own detailed artistic style with intricate brush work which, along with his use of colour and shade, captured the natural beauty of his subjects.

Graeme now works as a full-time artist and has won numerous awards and prizes for his work.

Karen, who is one of Graeme's students, paints a wide variety of subjects including seascapes, marine art, portraits, landscapes and floral compositions.

She has successfully exhibited at various studios on the Coast.

Karen is also an accomplished silk artist and her work is recognised in private collections in the United Kingdom and Australia.

Jan is a resident of The Bays and her work consists of colourful abstract images.

Jan has also been a teacher of young children, and has helped run the centre on McMasters Rd, where she taught pottery.

Jan paints under the name of Janni Jones.

Entry to the Wine, Cheese and Art evening costs $25 and is by ticket only.

Tickets must be bought in advance and cannot be purchased on the door.

Debating team has second win

Pretty Beach Public School's debating team, Merindah, participated in their second debate on Tuesday, June 18, against Kincumber Public school.

"Although Kincumber were very convincing when arguing their points, they could not stand up against the ferocious rebuttals of our team, who secured their second win so far," said Pretty Beach Public School debating coordinator Ms Michaela Bridgman.

"As it stands, both of our teams (Banyandah and Merindah) remain undefeated thanks to their hard work and ongoing dedication.

"For those of you who are wondering what the names of our teams mean, they are both derived from Aboriginal terms.

"Merindah is an Aboriginal word for 'beautiful' and Banyandah means 'place by the water'.

"We felt the names best represented our school and shows that the two teams are united by the fact that they are both from the same beautiful school by the water.

"Next term the teams will be debating against one more school each before having to eventually face each other in Education Week," said Ms Bridgman.

Federal candidate joins clean-up

Liberal candidate for Robertson Ms Lucy Wicks Brisbane Water Secondary School students on Tuesday, June 18, to help clean up Brisbane Water foreshore as part of the Brisbane Water Foreshore Project.

The project was run by MacMasters Beach Surf Life Saving Club member Graham Johnston and saw volunteers remove rubbish and debris from the mangrove swamps on Pelican Island Nature Reserve opposite Woy Woy foreshore.

Local oyster growers and MacMasters Beach Surf Life Saving Club ferried volunteers over to the island, with the group collecting more than three tonnes of rubbish, including 1500 plastic bottles, 33 old car tyres, 1850 bits of plastic and a large number of old oyster trays.

"It's really alarming to see the amount of rubbish which gets washed up - a lot of which presents a major hazard to local wildlife like the pelicans," Ms Wicks said.

"That's why it's great to see local initiatives like this one getting in there and tackling the problem head on, utilising the goodwill that exists in the community to clean up our environment.

"It's through local initiatives like the Brisbane Water Foreshore Project that see real environmental results which is why the Liberal Party has plans to establish a 15,000 strong Green Army charged with the clean-up and conservation of our environment."

Mr Johnston said it was great that Ms Wicks came out to see firsthand the scale of the problem.

"From a distance the Brisbane Water foreshores look pristine and it's only until you get direct access to them via a boat that you see the amount of rubbish that has accumulated.

"That's why our work here is so important," Mr Johnston said.

Bay pioneers led with road development

The arrival of the motor vehicle at the start of the 20th century signalled a challenge to ships and boats and the railways in the provision of transport services to the region.

Despite the arrival of the railway a decade earlier, the road infrastructure of the region was still virtually non-existent.

Expansion of Woy Woy and its surroundings needed roads locally and connections to main routes to Sydney and Newcastle.

The Bays pioneers including Jerry Mahoney of Woy Woy Bay and the Phegan family were quick to recognise the importance of motor vehicles and improved communications to the future of the Bays.

There were four major road building projects which directly concerned residents of and visitors to the Bavs.

The first was the Mountain Road which joined Woy Woy with Kariong (and the Sydney-Gosford road) which was commenced in 1923 and referred to in 1937's Back to Woy Woy programme as follows

The main road leading from the Pacific Highway, over the ranges and into Woy Woy is known by the Department of Main Roads as Road No. 349, and its official name is the Woy Woy- Gosford Rd.

Until 1923, however, the district had no road communication whatever, with the outside world. relying on rail and boat for transportation.

The story of Woy Woy's first entry by car is an interesting and valuable one for the demonstration that road transport was practical, led by gradual stages, to the beautiful thoroughfare that meets the convenience of motorists today.

On Saturday, March 10, 1923, the first motor car was driven into Woy Woy by Mr V.J. McKenzie of Gosford, who was accompanied by the president of Erina Shire (Cr. C.J. Staples who was also Woy Woy's representative) and the Shire engineer (the late Mr C.J. Fenton).

There was no semblance of a road leading into the township at that time and the first car made its appearance to the incredulous astonishment of Woy Woy residents.

Hitherto, not even a horsedrawn vehicle had entered Woy Woy on its own wheels, the bridal track over the hills from the direction of Gosford winding up and down steep gullies, through thickly timbered wilderness and along boulder-strewn ridges.

No preparatory work of any kind had been done for the adventurous car-driver and his companions.

They cleared their way as they went along, filled watercourses with timber which they had to cut down, many times overcoming obstacles which at first glance appeared insuperable.

The trip commenced from Gosford at 9:30am, and the car was over Woy Woy tunnel three hours later and there two hours were spent in searching for a way out from a seemingly hopeless

But the way was found, and at 4:30pm, the Buick six-cylinder car raced into Woy Woy with the "hooter" in full blast.

It took seven hours to travel the eight miles.

After proving in so practical a manner that road communication between Woy Woy and the outside world was a distinct possibility, Cr Staples was able to persuade the Erina Shire Council to vote 500 pounds for the construction of a rough track.

This was done under the direction of the Shire Engineer, with Ganger RP 'Bob' Sylvester, in charge of the construction.

Within six months the road, or the "goat track" as it was called by critical motorists, had been made and each year it was steadily improved as funds permitted.

Early this year, Messrs. Brady and O'Meara, contractors, commenced work of reconstructing the route and laying down a tarred surface at a cost of 17,511 pounds and it is a compliment to the pioneers that the road follows practically the same route as the old "goat track".

There was the lengthy public debate that occurred prior to this construction as many supported a road to Gosford along the waterfront, which is the present day Brisbane Water Dr.

Public opinion was polarised but ultimately unavailability of land eliminated this alternative option.

The second road was the linking of Phegans Bay Rd with the Mountain Rd later in 1924.

This road was built by James Phegan to provide improved access to his tourist resort.

The third road was the building of Woy Woy Bay Rd to connect with the Mountain Rd in 1932, giving road access to Woy Woy Bay for the first time.

The fourth road was the Great Northern Highway (later renamed Pacific Highway) from Sydney to the Hawkesbury at Peats Crossing, which replaced the old road via Wiseman's Ferry.

Sleeping with one eye open?

When will Premier, Minister and Council apologise?

How would you like to be in the trenches and have this mob in Canberra as your support?

What a disgraceful, disloyal, duplicitous, conniving, interested group of political animals they have shown themselves to be.

Many of these people were involved in shafting poor old Kim Beazley in favour of Rudd and when the polls showed him to be failing they supported Julia and knifed Rudd.

Now the very same people are trying to convince us to forgive and forget their treachery in dispatching Julia and that Rudd is a reformed character, no longer the megalomaniacal ogre many of them were saying he was as recently as last week and that he is now the hope of the side.

With friends such as these I would suggest Mr Rudd adopt the old jungle fighter's habit of sleeping with one eye open.

The Shame File

Ducks Crossing Publications has a very liberal credit policy for advertisers and realises that from time to time, people, businesses and organisations get into financial difficulty and may need assistance and time to get things back on track.

However, some people, businesses and organisations take advantage of this generosity they use advertising but simply don't pay their account after several months and need to be taken to court to do so.

From time to time, as necessary, we will name these people, businesses or organisations as a warning to our readers so that they will be wary when dealing with them.

The junior grand final was won by Empire Bay over St John the Baptist.

The first senior game saw Empire Bay Public School win 4-0 over St John the Baptist.

Empire Bay lost their next game 4-0 to Umina but won their following games over Ettalong and Kariong.

A 6-0 win over Woy Woy and an 18-0 win over Point Clare then saw the Empire Bay side secure a spot in the final.

The final saw Umina ad Empire Bay go head to head but Empire Bay secured the game 10-0.

Empire Bay Public School principal Mr Brad Lewis said: "I was fortunate enough to join with many Empire Bay parents and supporters in watching two impressive displays of school boy football.

"What struck me was the skill and accuracy with which the boys from both sides passed the ball and the hard but fair defence given by the boys in protecting their try line.

"I am one of many proud members from the Empire Bay community who would like to acknowledge this wonderful sporting achievement," he said.
