

Development action groups to consider joining forces

Three resident actions groups concerned about development standards are likely to come together to oppose non-compliant development.

A meeting is planned of the Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development, Save Woy Woy Waterfront and Save Our Woy Woy groups.

This will “allow members to come together and create a strong group to oppose all non-compliant developments on the Peninsula”, according to Save Our Woy Woy founder Mr Harvey McDougall.

Mr McDougall said the community had the right to expect that developments complied with planning controls.

“Unfortunately, there are too many which are going through that are non compliant,” he said.

Mr McDougall said the council had put itself in a difficult position.

With so many non-compliant developments, it made it difficult to refuse others.

“The precedent has been set.

“What is Council going to do?”

Mr McDougall said “allowable variances” should not exist in the planning controls.

Designers should be able to create properties that both fit within the planning controls and meet a high standard of design, he said.

“It used to happen before when we only had two levels of height as the limit.

“Surely in this age of technology, designs of the highest standard can be achieved without going outside the parameters.”

Mr McDougall said that the community needed to be fully consulted about planning provisions being applied to the Peninsula.

He said the Council was currently not helping and the State Government was ignoring the problem.

“It is time to bring all people to the table and work together for the benefit of the Peninsula.”

He said State parliamentarians, councillors and planning staff should be involved and listen to the community, and not just “the ever-present developers”.

Palm Beach ferry runs aground

The Palm Beach Ferry ran aground in the Ettalong Channel on March 9.

The ferry ran aground at Half Tide Rocks just before 5:30pm with three Marine Rescue NSW vessels and a team from NSW Police's Marine Area Command attending.

“Thirty-one ferry passengers were safely transferred off the vessel before NSW Police vessel WP 42 and Marine Rescue vessel Cottage Point 31 relocated the vessel,” said Marine Rescue volunteer Mr Roger Palmer.

“Cottage Point 31 was able to secure a tow line to the ferry's bow and, with all passengers removed and a solid three knot current, towed the large vessel to deeper water,” Mr Palmer said.

The crews were able to get the ferry afloat again and on its way just after 6:30pm.

He announced: “The ferry that earlier ran aground at Half Tide Rocks at the entrance to Brisbane Water is now safely on an emergency mooring and all Marine Rescue NSW vessels have been stood down.”

Mehrtens questions generator pollution at Woy Woy tip

Local ward councillor Richard Mehrstens has received a response from Central Coast Council to questions he asked about air pollution at Woy Woy tip.

Cr Mehrstens said a constituent had raised concerns about air quality after reading a report that described the air pollution as medium.

Cr Mehrstens asked if council staff were concerned about the pollution generated by the “gas abatement” facility operated by AGL at the Nagari Rd tip.

Central Coast Council staff provided the report to the March 25 council meeting in answer to Cr Mehrstens' questions.

Cr Mehrten said the AGL plant was the only registered industrial facility listed in the 2256 postcode area on the Australian Government's National Pollutant Inventory.

He said it was listed as emitting a total of 102,180kg pollutants.

The inventory included 61,000kg of carbon monoxide, 28,000kg of nitrogen oxides and 12,000kg of sulphur dioxide. and listed 11 other pollutants including arsenic, cadmium, chromium, lead, mercury, polychlorinated dioxins and polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons, as well as particulate matter.

Council staff reported that the AGL facility at Woy Woy tip was a renewable energy generation plant, operated under a long-term contract.

Gas generated from within the landfill at the Woy Woy tip was captured and converted to energy.

The report stated that the conversion of the methane enriched gas into electricity at this site was not considered to impact on local air quality.

It said the landfill gas was predominately comprised of methane and was converted to electricity through the use of a generator.

The resulting electricity was then sold into the grid.

From the year to August 2018, the one megawatt generator produced 7437.12 megawatts of electricity which was equivalent to meeting electricity needs for about 1191 average Central Coast homes.

The report estimated the methane destroyed by the facility was equivalent to 38,197 tonnes of carbon dioxide.

This would be equivalent to removing 11,234 cars from the road for one year, the report said.

The report stated that the Australian Clean Energy Regulator recognised the greenhouse gas abatement and renewable energy activities undertaken at the tip and the site qualified for Australian Carbon Credit Units and Large-scale Generation Certificates.

After the staff response, Cr Mehrstens said the council response indicated that it didn't consider the facility impacted on local air quality and, until he was provided with evidence to the contrary, he had no reason to doubt council's assessment of the safety.

“At this time, I am satisfied with the response provided and have no intention to pursue this further,” he said.

Wet conditions continue across Peninsula

Consistent rainfall throughout March and the first five days of April have provided a much needed boost to the Peninsula's yearly total rainfall figure.

According to data compiled by Umina's Mr Jim Morrison, 213.2mm of rain fell in the month of March with 17 individual rainfall events recorded over 31 days.

This confirms March's ranking as the wettest month of the year so far, as well as, its record for having the greatest number of individual rainfall events.

The figure is also a step up from 2018 rainfall results with March 2018 only recording 79.6mm of rainfall.

April 2019 has also been off to a wetter than average start compared to last year with 17.6mm of rain recorded between April 1-5.

In the first 20 days of April 2018 only 10.9mm of rain was recorded.

All up the Peninsula's total yearly rainfall figure sits at 399.2mm, meaning March alone makes up 53 per cent of the total yearly rainfall to date.

Nursing home approved for sensitive bushland

A 160-bed aged care nursing home will go ahead in sensitive bushland at 45 Hillview St, Woy Woy, after gaining approval from the Joint Regional Planning Panel on March 28.

The proposal was not compliant with planning provisions.

It had a topmost ceiling height of 10.95metres, exceeding the eight metre maximum building height development standard.

It was three storeys, exceeding the two-storey height limit for the zone and a single-storey development standard limit on the rear boundary for seniors living developments.

The $28m development owned by Thompson Health Care will site a three-storey nursing home on a cleared space within the property.

A bushland conservation area of 67 per cent of the site will be dedicated to the remnant bushland of Umina Coastal Sandplain Woodland.

The panel's statement of reasons for its decision included being generally in agreement with the environmental assessment outlined in council reports.

The panel was supportive of the nursing home, saying it suited the site and that while a seniors housing development for the site was already approved, this application needed to be assessed on its own merits.

Cleared area where nursing home will be sited

It said the proposal was well below the floor space ratio control and had a smaller footprint with an additional storey on site with high bushland conservation values.

It said the site was unique and was large, well vegetated, removed from residential development and surrounded by roads or reserves which significantly reduced the visual and amenity impacts - related to building height and bulk - on neighbouring land.

"The large site size and the location of the building envelope relative to the retained bushland also provided significant landscaped setbacks to public land and the streetscape, to help mitigate the visual impacts of the building upon the streetscape," the statement said.

It said there was no significant amenity impacts on surrounding land.

The site is adjacent to the Everglades Golf Club, located on the eastern side of Hillview St; with Council recreation and drainage reserves adjacent to the southern and western boundaries, the St John The Baptist School located to the west of the drainage reserve, and four detached houses adjacent to the northern site boundary.

Cr Kyle MacGregor disagreed with the majority decision, which the report noted was consistent with his position when the DA was deferred at a January panel meeting.

The report said Cr MacGregor had the view the application should have been refused for a number of reasons.

These included the impact on the Umina Coastal Sandplain Woodland area, as this was one of only three remaining sites of such land on the Endangered Ecological Communities list

He also questioned the potential impact on the water tables and flooding issues on the Woy Woy peninsula.

He noted former refusals of the former Gosford City Council of the same site in the past.

He said the design and the aesthetics of the development contrasted with the character and nature of nearby developments within the Woy Woy peninsula.

The applicant successfully argued its non-compliance with height restrictions were consistent with aims of the Gosford Local Environmental Plan to provide for flexibility and with the State Environmental Planning Policy to increase the supply and diversity of housing required to meet the needs of seniors or people with a disability and to achieve efficient use of existing infrastructure and services.

The matter was determined on March 28 with both Central Coast councillors, Chris Burke and Kyle MacGregor, sending their apologies for not attending.

Panel Members Jason Perica, Kara Krason and Michael Leavey were at the meeting.

The approval is subject to a list of conditions including amendments that require a parking management plan to be prepared and submitted to council for approval.

It must ensure adequate allocation of off-street parking is maintained onsite for staff.

And a bushland plan of management must be implemented and progress reports must be submitted to council at intervals, starting at six months after initial works have started, and ending at 10 years.

Restoration areas are to be maintained in perpetuity.

Reports are to be prepared by an ecologist or bush regenerator and submitted to council detailing the progress of the works twice per year with a final report certifying completion of the Bushland Management Zone to be submitted within three years after initial works have started.

Technical failure blamed for ferry grounding

A technical failure has been blamed for the disruption of the Palm Beach Ferry service on March 9 which saw the Ettalong-bound ferry grounded.

In a statement issued by the NRMA which owns and operates Fantasea Cruising, it was confirmed that a major technical failure occurred at around 5pm, forcing the ferry master to ground the vessel just off of Half Tide Rocks.

“Upon grounding, NSW Police Marine Area Command and Central Coast Marine Rescue were called for assistance with responding Marine Area Command officers confirming the vehicle was unable to continue its voyage,” said NRMA media advisor Ms Bridget Ahern. The police escorted the ferry’s 31 passengers to their destination while Marine Rescue volunteers helped re-float the ferry and tow it back to Fantasea Cruising’s base of operations.

Ms Ahern said a full report had been provided to Roads and Maritime Services and the ferry had since had several pieces of equipment replaced and been deemed seaworthy.

She said that, despite the disruption, services resumed on March 9, with slight delays.

“This occurred right before the second last service of the day was due to depart so we arranged for another ferry to take over the run.

“Our priority was ensuring that people relying on our service got home safely,” Ms Ahern said.

Chairman's Report

Wetlands and Antechinus are on my mind. The previously protected wetlands in Kangy Angy and Lisarow are both being partly cleared. Kangy Angy for the poorly designed rail facility which now finds more clearing is needed and at Lisarow the highway is being realigned in a very damaging manner. In both cases CEN raised objections to clearing wetlands and put the case, only to be ignored by government. CEN's role must not become one of recording what we lost and how.

That is why it is so important for CEN to have positive programs to improve the environment. A bush regeneration team, native plant sales, Habitat for Wildlife, Waterwatch and Land for Wildlife, all play a part.

Antechinus (native marsupial mouse) are so fast that one is never sure if they actually saw it. They occur around Terrigal Lagoon and CEN is supporting the locals to improve the local habitat.

Read more about Antechinus at Backyard Buddies and be amazed: <https://www.backyardbuddies.org.au/downloads/factsheets/mammals/antechinus.pdf>

HANDS ACROSS THE SAND

On Sunday the 5 May at 12 noon, the Central Coast arm of Save Our Coast will be hosting Hands Across the Sand allowing community members to make a stand to protect our coastline from any potential harmful seismic testing that the current Federal Government have approved. We will hold hands across the coastline from Umina Beach heading north. We welcome all community members to attend and send a clear message to current Federal MP's and potential incumbents on the Central Coast seats of Robertson and Dobell. We don't need to add anymore fuel to climate warming, we need clean, green, cheaper renewable energy now. We must make a stand, before this election so we can look back proud that we have left behind a liveable, thriving planet for generations to come as we are all in this together!

Recreation precinct to have $8.25M transformation

The Peninsula Recreation Precinct is set to undergo a multi-million-dollar transformation after Federal Member for Robertson Ms Lucy Wicks secured $8.25 million to upgrade sporting facilities.

"This recreational and sport upgrade will be like nothing the Peninsula has ever seen and I am thrilled the Coalition Government has backed and supported the project," Mrs Wicks said.

She made the announcement at Jasmine Greens Cafe in front of the many groups who will benefit from the work.

Among other things, the Umina Recreational Hub Project upgrade will see the redevelopment of the existing Umina skate park, a BMX track, a new football clubhouse for Umina United Football Club and a new integrated community facility for Southern Spirit Cricket Club, the Umina Beach Bunnies Rugby League Club, the Umina Tennis Club and the Umina Men's Shed.

Around $3.5 million will be spent on redeveloping the skate park, BMX track and basketball courts. "This funding will allow the Peninsula Recreation Precinct to be brought up to the same standard as McEvoy Oval in Woy Woy," Mrs Wicks said.

"This project is one that has been very special to me and one that I have been advocating for in

Canberra and in my community ever since the concept was first outlined to me by the Umina Community Group.

"I could see immediately what the social and economic benefits would be.

"This was really a community-led initiative with over 2000 people signing a petition and it was one of the first issues I raised with the Prime Minister Scott Morrison.

"This project which will benefit hundreds, if not thousands, of residents living at Ettalong Beach, Woy Woy and Umina.

"The new facilities will prove not only a social boost, but an economic boon for the area by attracting regional sporting competitions to the area.

"So many residents and parents have spoken to me about the important need for new and redeveloped recreational facilities, as well as the need for a safe haven where their children can play and participate in their favourite sport. "I congratulate the people who have worked so hard behind the scenes to ensure this exciting new precinct became a reality, including Rod Unsworth and Tony Winch from the Umina Community Group."

Mr Tony Winch responded, saying the Umina Community Group started about five years ago as a voice for Umina.

"We didn't think there was a voice saying what we wanted," he said.

But after 600 respondents to a survey and thousands signing a petition, the voice came from the community.

He said he had learned: "You have a voice. Use it in conversation and you can change the world around you."

"You can change your world by using your voice," he said.

"But what's your voice supposed to sound like? Not harsh. Not yelling. It's a conversation that started with Lucy Wicks and with council.

"It's been a wonderful journey." He asked anyone interested to consider joining the group.

ACF branch to raise Hillview St objections with Ministers

Central Coast Branch of the Australian Conservation Foundation will raise objections about the way the decision to permit a nursing home in endangered bushland in Hillview St, Woy Woy, was made with State Government ministers.

Branch president Mark Ellis said the site had one of the most significant remaining stands of the endangered ecological community, Umina Coastal Sandplain Woodland.

He said the branch would be writing to new Planning Minister Mr Anthony Roberts and Energy and Environment Minister Mr Matt Kean, as well as to Member for Gosford Ms Liesl Tesch.

Mr Ellis said the approval was based on outdated information.

"The approval suggests protection of the endangered ecological community is based on a bushland management plan established 12 years ago for an entirely different development, under different legislation and scientific understanding and biodiversity management," he said.

"The original approved development application was an up-market retirement village with 37 units to what it is now a three storey nursing home with 160 units.

"This will create more shading, impact on the vegetation by changes to the surface water flow; create cumulative impacts of nutrient run off, increase pedestrian movements; fragment the habitat, along with mowing and slashing and weed invasion."

He said the development did not comply with the Gosford local environment plan.

It ignored and did not explain a recent council assessment of the development's unsuitability for the site.

There was the loss of 132 trees with no replacement policy and there was no monitoring of the management of the endangered bushland after 10 years, he said.

Mr Ellis said the object of the Environmental Planning and Assessment act to protect the environment, including the conservation of threatened and other species of native animals and plants, ecological communities and their habitats, had been ignored and had not been adequately addressed.

He said a number of issues had to be taken into account in determining whether a proposed development was likely to significantly affect threatened species or ecological communities, or their habitats.

These included risk of extinction and fragmentation or isolation of a habitat.

Mr Ellis said "no real science" was carried out for this application, nor were the risks given detailed consideration.

He said that, if the decision was to be based on 12-year-old information, the decision of the Land and Environment Court at the time should be followed.

It found that the whole of the site could be considered to be Umina Coastal Sandplain Woodland and that the adverse environmental impact of such a substantial proposal on the natural environment outweighed the competing factors weighing in favour of consent, he said.

Mr Ellis said he believed the local community still felt the same way: "Our community feels the protection of the Umina woodlands still far outweighs the competing factors weighing in favour of the grant of this development consent."

Crouch appointed Government Whip

Member for Terrigal Mr Adam Crouch has been appointed Government Whip.

Mr Crouch, who retained his seat at the March State election, said he was delighted to have been appointed as Government Whip in the re-elected Berejiklian-Barilaro Government.

"It is an honour to be asked by the Premier to serve in this leadership position within our Government.

"This is only the second time ever a Central Coast MP has served in the role, and provides significant recognition for our region.

The Whip is part of the Government leadership team with responsibility for coordinating MP's attending votes, speaking on Bills in Parliament, and managing the legislative process.

He will also liaise with Government MPs and the Premier.

Meanwhile Labor MP David Harris who was re-elected in the seat of Wyong says the Central Coast has been left behind in the Berejiklian reshuffle.

As part of the reshuffle, there was no Minister or Parliamentary Secretary for the Central Coast appointed.

The previous Parliamentary Secretary for the Central Coast was Scot Macdonald who was not re-elected at the March 23 election.

Tesch calls for community control of local planning

Member for Gosford Ms Liesl Tesch has come out in support of calls to retain community control of local planning.

"The measures were developed for and by our local community and that is what the community expects."

"Alongside our community, I want to see quality development, compliant heights and floor space ratios, and infrastructure investment by the Liberal government, not a planning take-over."

She said the call for unrepresentative planning panels was like putting the fox in charge of the hen house.

"We all want to maintain our own style and strong sense of community, and do not need the Berejiklian Government to steamroll local our planning, and allow developers a free-for-all in our community," she said.

"The community continues to make it very clear we do not want to end up like the inner west - sky rise units, no additional infrastructure funding, growing schools squashed into diminishing sites as units tower over playgrounds, no extra parks, no additional parking, public transport or road expansion.

"Again, it seems we have developers out there spruiking what is best for developers without considering the community's needs."

"Some of these planning panels put the fox in charge of the hen house - panels of developers deciding on developments."

"Without a local voice, it is bad for our community."

"We need to have a voice in the future, not be steam-rolled by overdevelopment."

"Whilst we accept that our population continues to grow, this government cannot take away our local planning powers, COSS lands, green spaces, nor the quality village feel of our coastal communities."

Wicks announces new commuter parking

Member for Robertson Ms Lucy Wicks has announced what she described as "a fully-funded and properly-costed" $35 million plan for commuter car parking at both Gosford and Woy Woy stations.

"This is an issue that has been consistently raised with me since becoming the Member for Robertson in 2013.

"I am so pleased that we're able to deliver this funding for our hard-working commuters," Mrs Wicks said.

"I've heard from many commuters about the frustrations of not being able to find a park, from people who park at 5am and sleep for an hour before catching the train to parents who desperately want to spend time with their kids in the morning, rather than leaving before the sun rises to guarantee a park.

"We are backing our commuters by working with Central Coast Council to form a strong plan to provide this vital infrastructure for the more than 30,000 locals travelling to Sydney or Newcastle for work."

More parking ‘not a smart solution’, says Chamber

The Peninsula Chamber of Commerce has described Federal Government plans to provide additional commuter parking in Woy Woy as “not a smart solution”.

Smarter strategies would be expansion of the on-demand and other bus services, improving the kiss and ride facilities, and encouraging car-pooling, according to Chamber president Mr Matthew Wales.

He said the Federal Government should also be doing more to promote employment opportunities on the Central Coast “so that people don’t have to commute into Sydney in the first place”.

“We have to examine the basic issue of why 8000 people a day commute from Woy Woy rail station to the Sydney metro area.

“This comes down to the lack of local jobs and job opportunities”, said Mr Wales.

He said: “Strategies should include the revitalisation of the Woy Woy commercial centre, improving planning controls to encourage commercial redevelopment and boosting incentives for residential accommodation close to the Woy Woy rail station.”

Mr Wales said: “While the Chamber welcomes the Federal Government’s $35M commitment to additional commuter parking at Woy Woy and Gosford rail stations, it is keen to see smarter options put in place rather than simply adding more levels to the Woy Woy multi-deck car park or using up even more commercial land for at-grade car parking.

“You will never meet the latent demand for car parking at Woy Woy, so we have to look to other strategies to encourage commuters to leave their cars at home rather than simply adding yet more spaces”.

“We are very lucky here on the Peninsula in that we have an efficient grid system of roads, level suburban areas, relatively good public transport links and being only an hour and half from the Sydney CBD.

“But those advantages also mean that people want to live here and commute to the city while enjoying our unique lifestyle.

“And compounding the problem are those who are driving their cars to Woy Woy from as far afield as Kincumber, MacMasters Beach and Copacabana rather than coping with the congestion at Gosford rail station.

“We are a better option which unfortunately is adding to the problem locally,” he said.

“By using local bus services and On Demand Transport more efficiently, our road system does have the capacity to cope with the demand.

“By all means improve the parking infrastructure but address the fundamental reason why you have the problem in the first place”, said Mr Wales.

Approval to strata subdivide Atlantis building

The owners of the Atlantis building have received approval to strata title the 59 units at 49 The Esplanade, Ettalong.

Central Coast Council has approved the strata titles as a complying development.

The proposed strata development did not require public notification but, despite this, the council received nine objections plus one submission in support.

The council report said submissions related to the approved mixed-use commercial and residential development and a modification currently under assessment by the Department of Planning.

But these were not about the proposal for the strata subdivision of the residential component of Stage 1 of the approved development.

Council said the strata subdivision would not interfere with the existing or likely future amenity of the neighbourhood and it was considered that the site was suitable for the proposal.

The consent authority for the development was the NSW Department of Planning and Environment.

The Atlantis development was approved by the Minister for Planning on 24 November 2010 as a State-significant development, as a mixed-use development over two stages.

The proposal has been subsequently modified to increase the number of apartments within the building and to make minor alterations and additions.

The most recent amendment, MOD 4, was approved on 18 June 2018.

The proposed strata plan is consistent with the MOD 4 approved plans which allowed partial use of the approved non-trafficable roof area as private terraces for apartments 601 and 602.

The assessment by the NSW Department of Planning and Environment considered the development achieved an appropriate level of design and would maintain and enhance the amenity of the locality and surrounding development.

The development contributed towards long term dwelling targets in the Central Coast Regional Plan.

The Department is currently considering an application for further modification to the development, Application

No.09_0121MOD 5.

It is not known what these modifications involve.

The site recently was subdivided into two stratum lots with one lot containing all the residential units and associated car parking and the second lot containing all the commercial units and their car parking.

This facilitated the current approval of strata titles of the individual units to enable separate occupation.

Anzac Day services around the Peninsula

Commemorative services are set to take place around the Peninsula and nearby areas for Anzac Day on April 25.

The Woy Woy, Ettalong and Hardys Bay Sub-Branch of the Returned Services League will hold a dawn service from 5:15am at Memorial Park, Woy Woy.

It will start with a march from Woy Woy Railway Station to the Woy Woy Memorial Garden for the service at 5:30am.

Following the service, attendees are invited to a free breakfast at the Ettalong Diggers Club which takes place from 6am.

A wreath laying service will take place at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial on the Ettalong waterfront at 8am.

Ettalong Diggers and the RSL Sub-Branch will also hold a morning service with a march from the Deepwater Plaza car park at 10am to the Woy Woy Memorial Garden for the service at 10:30am.

The club will also hold a luncheon following this service with live entertainment scheduled throughout the day from 12pm.

The club's courtesy bus will provide transport.

Bookings for both the luncheon and the courtesy bus are essential.

Ettalong Bowling Club will commence its Anzac Day service from 1pm at the club's flagpole.

Prior to the service, the club will be open from 8am with a free breakfast served between 9am and 10:45am.

Following the service, the club has also arranged free live music for patrons which will commence from 1:30pm.

Ettalong Bowling Club's courtesy bus will also be available for anyone with mobility difficulties.

Seating on the bus is limited so bookings are essential and can be made through the club.

The Patonga Beach Progress Association will hold a dawn service at the Patonga War Memorial from 5:30am, following which a free breakfast will be served at the Patonga Progress Hall for attendees.

Pearl Beach Progress Association will hold a memorial service at the Pearl Beach Memorial Hall from 10am.

A light morning tea will be served after then service and the association will be collecting donations for Legacy Australia, to provide financial assistance and support to the families of Defence Force personnel.

The Empire Bay Progress Association will hold a service from 11am at the Empire Bay Cenotaph on Sorrento Rd.

Hardys Bay Club will hold a commemorative service from 11am.

The club has also arranged for live entertainment from 1pm to 4pm.

Veterans' families to receive commemorative crosses

Families of local veterans who lost their lives in World War I will receive a cross engraved with the veteran's name at a special ceremony on April 11.

Last year, residents of Peninsula Village made 225 crosses with the help of Umina Men's Shed, which were displayed at the village on Remembrance Day

"Ideally, we would like to present all the crosses to family members," said Peninsula Village chief executive Mr Neaves.

"Each cross represents a fallen soldier whose legacy means so much, but to none more so than members of their own family.

"Our residents involved in placing the plaques on the crosses reminisced about their family members that had gone to war, the hardships families at home endured and the great sacrifices our entire country undertook during this time.

"We feel the crosses belong with those families.

"We're extending this invitation to all family members to come along," he said.

The ceremony commences from 10:30am.

The presentation is also open to representatives from local RSLs.

A full list of the local WWI veterans being honoured in this memorial is available on Peninsula Village's website.

Labor promises second Ettalong foreshore project

Labor candidate for Robertson Ms Anne Charlton has said a Federal Labor Government would fund stage two of the Ettalong foreshore project.

She said the $2.5 million project would increase foreshore access and improve the waterfront pathway.

It would link the Ettalong foreshore pathway to the Umina Beach precinct, providing a purpose-built thoroughfare that could be utilised for walking, running and cycling, she said.

"It means the world to me to be able to back our community-led campaigns."

"Labor funded Stage 1 of the Ettalong Foreshore and today we announce that, in government, we will complete the job," Ms Charlton said.

"Investments in community facilities like this support more Australians to live active, healthy lifestyles."

Stage one was completed in 2013.

This new commitment follows an extended community campaign from seniors groups and families.

Woy Woy resident Mrs Shirley Harrison, 83, was at the announcement.

"I had a terrible fall a year ago due to the uneven road surface near my home and I've lost confidence to get out of the house and exercise," she said.

She said there was a need for more access to safe, even footpaths to exercise.

The new footpath meant she would be able to walk down to the surf club and walk up from Umina to Ettalong safely, she said.

Ettalong Diggers chair Mr John Woods said stage 2 of the Ettalong Foreshore would mean an improvement for the local community and visiting tourists.

"It opens up a whole new area for tourists to explore meaning more support for small business and more tourist dollars spent locally," he said.

Ms Charlton said: "The delivery of stage two will also boost to tourism in the region, and provide benefits for local small business."

"Labor knows the value of this project because it will grow jobs and help connect communities."

"Our investments in local community facilities like this support more Australians to live active, healthy lifestyles."

Environment network to screen seismic testing film

The Community Environment Network and the Save Our Coast group will hold a free screening of the documentary Sonic Sea at the Umina Surf Life Saving Club from 7pm on April 11.

The screening is being held in opposition to a planned approval by the Federal Government of seismic testing for oil and gas off of the Central Coast.

"Join us from 7pm at the surf club for the free screening of Sonic Sea, a documentary explaining the impacts of seismic testing and noise pollution on our oceans," said Community Environment Network chair Mr John Asquith.

"Find out more about PEP11 and the current Federal Government's planned approval of seismic testing for oil and gas pipelines across the Central Coast covering 1000 square kilometres of coastline."

"Please help us stop seismic testing and save our coast before it's too late."

Ettalong resident Mr Hale Adasal of the Save Our Coast group said the film played to a full house of 300 people at Avoca Beach Picture Theatre in February.

"Peninsula residents have requested a local event since then."

"We're very pleased that the Umina Surf Club has a large enough venue to screen the film," he said.

"With 1000 square kilometres of 3D seismic blasting being planned for our coast, this film about the impact of underwater noise is most relevant."

"3D seismic testing involves multiple airguns firing simultaneous intense and explosive blasts into the ocean floor in the search for the best drilling targets for oil or gas."

"Small scale seismic testing for oil and gas has already occurred close to Norah Head in April last year."

Committee member Mr David Abrahams of Killcare said now 3D seismic testing over a vastly expanded test area of 1000 square kilometres was being planned.

"This is a very real issue for the Peninsula area that values its marine life and coastal life style very highly," he said.

Money raised to restore community garden

The Peninsula Environment Group has raised more than $360 at a local shopping centre to restore the Woy Woy Peninsula Community Garden from recent fire damage.

The money raised at Deepwater Plaza Shopping Centre will go towards replacing the garden's storage shed and other equipment which had been destroyed in a series of arson attacks earlier this year.

Garden coordinator Ms Tania Haydn said the group had been touched by the level of support they had received since reports of the garden's plight surfaced.

"The outpour of support from the community has been amazing," Ms Haydn said.

"Ever since the major arson attack where we lost the shed we've had people donating to our fundraiser on Go Fund Me, but we've also had people donating all sorts of things from watering cans to wheelbarrows," Ms Haydn said.

According to Ms Haydn, the group was focusing its efforts on raising funds as the burnt-out garden shed will need to be removed and replaced before volunteers can get the garden's day-to-day operations back on track.

Ms Haydn said the group had applied for grant funding through Central Coast Council and Clubs NSW to replace the shed and for new fencing and security cameras.

"We're hopeful we can get the garden where we want it to be within the next 12 months and then we can all get back to the core work of the garden, improving and educating our community," Ms Haydn said.

Feedback wanted on water price drop

Central Coast Council is encouraging the community to provide feedback on a possible drop in water costs for residents.

The Independent Pricing and Regulatory Tribunal has issued a draft determination for water, sewerage and stormwater drainage prices for the Central Coast.

Under the determination, the annual water bill for a typical household in the former Gosford Council area would fall by about $330 in 2019-20.

Council director Ms Bileen Nel said Council and community members could provide feedback directly to the Tribunal from April 2 to 24.

"IPART will deliver its final determination for the Central Coast in May, so this is the last opportunity for Council and the community to have a say."

"Please take some time out from your weekly routine, so that you can attend.

"It is the time when all executive positions are declared open, and our new committee will be voted on and formed for the next 12 months.

"It is an opportunity for those who have not been involved in community events previously, and may have an interest in participating in some way, to put their hand up.

"Everybody is welcome," said group.

Feedback on draft water pricing determination

The Independent Pricing and Regulatory Tribunal (IPART) reviews and determines the maximum water, sewerage and stormwater drainage prices for major water utilities across NSW.

IPART has released its draft determination for the Central Coast and Council is encouraging all community members to have their say.

Community feedback will be considered by IPART during a three week review process in April 2019 ahead of their final determination for the Central Coast in May 2019.

Almost a tonne of waste taken from Empire Bay waters

Students from Brisbane Water Secondary College have removed almost a tonne of waste from waterways around Empire Bay.

The students took part in two cleaning expeditions around Empire Bay.

The first took place on March 8 and focussed on cleaning around Cockle Bay, a small inlet located near Empire Bay Public School.

Clean4Shore facilitator Mr Graeme Johnson said a large double bed mattress and a foam cushion were removed from the mangroves by students.

"The jetty foreshore had oyster trays visible in the water."

Mr Johnson said 12 large trays were removed.

"Oyster mesh was tangled in the adjoining mangroves."

He said this was removed together with small litter items on the tidal marks.

"Many other larger items began to appear in the metre deep water: a large advertising sign, lifting trolley, poly piping, office chair, steel piping buckets and foam items.

"Students faced a tough, muddy task, but it was a good outcome for the local environment.

"During the trip back to Lions Park, the group identified a small craft in the mangroves, which was towed back to the boat ramp."

Mr Johnson said a trailer with 540 kilos of rubbish was taken to Woy Woy tip.

On March 15, students again went with Clean4Shore to collect waste and debris around the Empire Bay wetlands.

Oyster product once again dominated the clean up

With a falling tide, the group first ventured into the Empire Bay wetlands and then cleaned from Merritts Wharf back towards Empire Bay.

"Plenty of small litter items were collected with eight big bags loaded into the barge with plastic pieces dominating the load.

"Boating parts, plastic oyster mesh, small and large plastic oyster trays pulled from the mangroves also made up a large portion of the debris collected," Mr Johnson said.

The group then travelled to the north western end of Riley's Island for a targeted clean up.

"Small litter items, plastic bottles and oyster product again dominated the collection.

"Our final task was on Pelican Island, cleaning the Woy Woy Channel."

Small litter, food wrappings and plastic pieces were collected behind the high tidal mark.

"All up 15 very large bags were loaded into the trailer, underneath the oyster product, with 400 kilos off loaded at Woy Woy tip," Mr Johnson said.

Charity run to include new event

The Bay to Bay Running Festival will return to Woy Woy in June with a new event added.
The festival sees participants all ages and abilities run from the Woy Woy waterfront as far as Central Coast Stadium in Gosford.
This year, a five-kilometre fun run-walk will be added to the usual two-kilometre Kids Run, the 12 kilometre fun run or the half marathon to raise funds for local charities.

Beneficiaries will be Camp Breakaway, The Hive and Central Coast Local Health District.
The festival is held annually and is run by the Terrigal Trotters, a social running and walking exercise group.
Entries are being accepted for the event which starts at 7am at Fishermen's Wharf Woy Woy on June 16.

Last year's festival raised $90,000 for charity and organiser Ms Jenny Baker said it was the Trotters' hope that this year's event will raise a new record figure.

Easter book fair held for 43rd time

Pearl Beach Progress Association's annual Easter Book Fair will be held for the 43rd time on Easter Saturday, April 20.
"As a significant event on the Pearl Beach yearly calendar, this year's annual book fair promises to be no exception," said association publicity officer Ms Lynne Lillico.
"The event is the association's largest single fundraising activity with proceeds going toward the Pearl Beach Memorial Hall repairs and upkeep," Ms Lillico said.
Book fair coordinator Ms Victoria Crawford said this year's event would have a book to suit all tastes and interests.
"We have thousands of books, general fiction, classics, crime and horror, travel, gardening, cooking, health, craft and art among others.
"Plus there are beautiful coffee table books and children's books and puzzles.

"There are also lots of CDs, DVDs and vinyl records."
Ms Lillico said: "The buzz of the crowd adds to the festive atmosphere, providing the perfect environment to search out those special book bargains."
The fair will also sell collectables with an array of items available for purchase.
"There will also be the traditional homemade cake stall and jams and the popular cafe on the back deck will be serving delicious refreshments and lunch at reasonable prices."
The Book Fair will run from 9am to 5pm at the Pearl Beach Progress Hall.

Events planned for Youth Week

Two events will take place on the Peninsula as part of National Youth Week.
An information and discussion session entitled "Where to From Here" will take place from 4pm to 6pm on April 10.
The session will be suitable for senior high school students beginning to think about what they'd like to do once they finish their schooling.
It will focus on sharing information on entering the workforce, adult budgeting, study and youth allowances and how to go about claiming them.
The session is free but bookings are essential.
The Bowl Groms Skate workshop will run from 11am on April 15.
Two workshops will run on the day with the first being a girls' only skate skills workshop which will run from 11am to 12pm and will be followed by a mixed beginners workshop.
Both workshops are free to attend but bookings are essential.

Kids' market will have Easter theme

The Bouddi Kids Create Market will be Easter-themed when it is held at the Killcare Surf Life Saving Club on April 20 from 12pm to 3pm.

"Local and visiting kids are welcome to run a small stall offering anything handmade including live performances, baked goods, arts and craft, photography, face painting or anything else they can think of," said Killcare Community Connect event organiser Ms Anna Trigg.

Anyone wanting to set up a stall on the day need simply email Ms Trigg at cckillcareslsc@gmail.com.

Local businesses offering children's products, services or classes are also welcome to run a small stall.

"All stallholders encouraged to think sustainability and earth-friendly when considering packaging and products.

"Let's keep our ocean and bushland pristine for future generations, Ms Trigg said.

Ms Trigg also encouraged any would-be stallholders to take on the Easter theme of the event with their stalls and products.

"Little stallholders and friends can enjoy a post-market Sand Castle Building Competition at 3:30pm while the bigger kids enjoy a drink and live music from the surf club bar from 3pm," Ms Trigg said.

Forum

Consider an independent Forum

When it comes to proper representation of the Peninsula in government, elected party members simply can't do the job.

They are hamstrung by their party's policies and political ideologies, even if they are contrary to the best interests of the people who elected them.

It doesn't matter how nice they are. They are party apparatchiks.

Disillusion with party politics by so many voters in Australia is rife.

If you number amongst them, your only sensible option is to vote for a local, progressive independent.

I exhort all Peninsula voters to take very seriously any independent candidates in the upcoming Federal elections.

Look at their policies and discuss your concerns with them.

Tell them your vision for the Peninsula.

After May, the cross benches in Federal Parliament could well hold the balance of power.

Having a progressive independent represent our interests on that cross bench would guarantee a better voice for us in parliament.

We could expect more to be done to benefit the social, economic and environmental equity in our region that has been sorely lacking for decades.

Time for exhaustive consultation again

I am writing in response to Matthew Wales who takes exception to the aims of a new community action group, Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development.

I take issue with his comment that the time a resident has lived in the area is relevant.

I live amongst people who have resided in Ettalong all their lives and they are generally not opposed to urban renewal but horrified as to the scale of new buildings and fear it will become unliveable (like Terrigal) in an area already struggling with proven urban heat island effects.

There is no excuse for poor design, less parking and fewer spaces for trees, gardens and shade.

It is now time for "exhaustive consultation" again with the community.

We need to address State planning laws

I concur with the comments of WR Maynard of Woy Woy in the Forum of Peninsula News (Edition 466) regarding our elected councillors and council staff sympathising with our objections to over-development and non-complying development application, while doing the opposite.

I also concur with his comments that Council's Greening Places Strategy is at odds with loss of our urban mature tree canopy with its impact on urban heat effects and climate change.

I believe that, if residents wish to see the return of planning power to local communities, it will need to be also addressed at the State Government level.

With 75,000 people being projected to be added to the Central Coast population by 2036, Council will be under pressure to increase housing, with minimal regard to its impact on local neighbourhoods.

For better planning we need to address State planning laws which have slowly eroded local council and local residents' control of our local environments and to challenge population growth targets.

Seriously reckless behaviour in school traffic

As a resident of Sydney Ave, I have to agree with Umina Beach Public School principal Lyn Davis (Peninsula News edition 466), regarding the traffic outside the school, during the drop-off and collection times.

There is definitely a problem with double parking.

When two cars are parked side-by-side, vehicles behind these cars cannot pull away from the kerb safely, as their visibility is completely blocked.

There is an equally dangerous situation created when drivers make U-turns across double lines.

Dozens of drivers make these illegal turns every day.

Forum

Children learn by example and they watch their parents make these dangerous turns.

There is a roundabout at the end of the street to facilitate a safe turn to the opposite side of the road.

Some parents would rather act irresponsibly than take an extra 10 seconds to make a safe turn.

As I reverse from my driveway, I have been almost run into by people making U-turns and not even looking for other cars on the road.

This is seriously reckless behaviour.

Ettalong commercial zone should have three-storey limit

The Ettalong Beach resident's group, Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development, would like to respond to Matthew Wales' letter (Peninsula News edition 466).

In 2005, Mr Wales' "highly successful Peninsula Urban Design Strategy (PUDS)" consultation process was labelled by one local residents group as "a one-day information session" which attracted "50 people out of 34,000" residents.

The major comment on this was "I don't believe the community has had an opportunity to have some discussion on the document". (Peninsula News 17 Oct. 2005, Residents Speak About PUDS, Gosford Council Meetings, reported by Lyle Stone.)

Another resident's group spokesman said "his organization was disappointed to read that the Council considered the consultation process a success".

They went on to say "of the 77 submissions received by council ... 61 referred to the consultation process as inadequate".

Mr Wales' response was reported as being: "It's urgent that we do move ahead" ... "urban development should focus on the quality of the design, not necessarily the height, bulk, or amount".

The subsequent LEP2014 produced a P1 zoning for a 17 metre, five-storey high "commercial corridor" in Ettalong Beach, which the majority of Ettalong Beach residents feel is too high.

This P1 height zone exceeds almost all Central Coast centres except Gosford City, Terrigal, and Woy Woy CBD.

The Ettalong waterfront L2 zone of 11.5 metres (three storeys) adjacent to P1, now houses the seven storey, 24-plus metre Atlantis building.

And the latest development application, DA55896, would involve a total height of approximately 22 metres (including building services structures) in the commercial corridor.

The PUDS 2005 document recommended "that new developments maintain the best features of traditional streetscapes and existing housing patterns."

The traditional streetscapes of Ettalong Beach are colonial heritage based, not highrise, high-density, unit blocks.

The Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development group believes that there should be a three-storey limit for our village's commercial zone, that local traffic would be hugely impacted by high-rise development, with no possible road expansion, and that high-rises would destroy the area's amenity.

The Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development group does not infer that Council is responsible for "inappropriate development", as alleged by Mr. Wales.

We infer that Council is being asked to approve developments by commercial enterprises which have a vested interest in hugely profitable buildings whose scope is massive "height, bulk, or amount".

In the overview to the PUDS 2005 draft, under the heading "Development", it was stated that "new planning policies are necessary to offer commercially competitive opportunities for investment whilst ensuring new developments maintained the best features of traditional streetscapes and existing housing patterns, and also provide contemporary standards of accommodation".

In the summary to the draft it was stated "If the Peninsula is to retain the environmental qualities that make it a highly attractive residential setting, both the level of population growth and the location of future development must not compromise current levels of amenity, existing scenic qualities or environmental character".

The Residents for Responsible Ettalong Development group is completely in agreement with these sentiments.

New plastic surgeon at hospital

A local hospital has welcomed a new doctor to its ranks.

"The hospital is delighted to welcome Dr Mohammad Mohaghegh, plastics, reconstructive and aesthetic surgeon," said Brisbane Waters Private Hospital chief executive Ms Kathy Beverley.

"Dr Mo, as he is known to his patients, has dedicated a lifetime to acquiring qualifications, training and experience to help patients and transform their lives by performing reconstructive micro-surgery and strengthening self-esteem through delicate plastic cosmetic surgery," Ms Beverley said.

"He was attracted to becoming a plastic surgeon due to his high level of surgical skill, attention to detail and the artistry that is paramount in plastic surgery.

"It is the combination of refined technical expertise with the aesthetic flair of repairing and, at times, enhancing form and shape to transform patient's lives and confidence that continuously inspires him."

According to his profile on the hospital's website, Dr Mohaghegh's expertise covers a large variety of procedures in plastic, reconstructive and aesthetic surgery, including: body contouring, abdominoplasty, liposuction, facial rejuvenation, fat injections blepharoplasty, brow lift and face lift, hand surgery, skin cancer surgery, microsurgery and burns, vaginal rejuvenation, paediatric plastic surgery, and head and neck reconstructions.

Dr Mohaghegh has a surgery in Erina and also operates from Gosford Private Hospital.

Knitting blankets for charity

Residents of a local retirement village are making blankets for the charity Wrap with Love, for distribution to people suffering extreme cold around the world.
The Residents of Peninsula Village's Don Leggett House have formed a knitting group for the purpose.

"They come together every Monday morning and enjoy morning tea, plenty of conversation and laughs while knitting and sharing ideas," said chief executive Mr Shane Neaves.
"Any donations of wool would be greatly appreciated and can be left at Don Leggett House reception."

Creating a 'warmer softer environment'

Renovations being undertaken by a local aged care village will "create a warmer softer environment for our residents in care", according to its chief executive.

BlueWave Living's Mr Matt Downie said renovations at the village's Shores facility were "in full swing".
"New flooring for the dining area of The Shores is now down."
"New kitchenettes within Anzac and The Shores wings are currently going in."
"We will begin progressively working on some new flooring areas where the new vinyl is going down over the coming weeks as well."
"The new outdoor furniture and surrounds looks fantastic at The Shores in the courtyard and a new pizza oven is on its way to this space," he said.

Mr Downie said later stages of the renovation work would include new carpeting, flooring and furnishings in residents' rooms and public areas across the facility as a whole.
"While it is an exciting time, I am also aware it can be very disruptive."
"A lot of the work undertaken is preparation, before final finishes are then put down."
"Due to this preparation work, many areas can look a bit unfinished for a period of time," Mr Downie said.

Hospital honours veterans' committee

A local hospital has held a special service recognising five veterans in the lead-up to Anzac Day.

Chief executive Ms Kathy Beverley said the Brisbane Water Private Hospital wanted to recognise the men in the Veterans Committee who represented a number of consumer groups who used the hospital.

The five men were Mr Don Young who represents Extensively Disabled Adjustment, Brisbane Water Legacy president Mr Max Davis, Ourimbah-Lisarow RSL Sub Branch president Mr Dave Pankhurst, Gosford RSL Sub Branch representative Mr Len Sargent representing and Mr Howard Campbell.

The hospital will hold its Anzac Day service as usual.

Cancer diagnosis was at once a relief and devastating

Ms Danica Williams of Umina said she was diagnosed with Stage 4 Hodgkins lymphoma after two years of misdiagnosis.

The correct diagnosis was relieving and completely devastating all at once, she said.

"I now had an answer, but I wasn't supposed to survive," Ms Williams said.

But survive she did. "After my treatment, I was still so sick.

"My immune system was shot. "I had neuropathy. All my muscles had wasted away and I couldn't walk down my driveway because I'd lost so much muscle condition and could hardly breathe properly.

"As a patient, you and your family just put everything into getting through the cancer treatment and surviving, so we relied on friends, family and support organisations for so much else," she said.

"The Leukaemia Foundation provided me with access to an exercise physiologist who helped get me back on my feet, and relearn pretty much everything."

Ms Williams received support through the Leukaemia Foundation's Young Bloods program, which helps those aged under 25 diagnosed with blood cancer or affected by a blood cancer.

The program was financially supported by the Newcastle Permanent Charitable Foundation.

Charitable Foundation acting chair Ms Jennifer Leslie said the Foundation had launched a campaign, Help Rewrite the Future, to raise awareness of the projects the Foundation had supported financially.

"Each case study in this campaign shows how profound the impact can be on the life of people and families who've benefitted from just one of the Charitable Foundation's projects."

Danica Williams

Ms Williams agreed to be one case study.

"We're so grateful that Danica has given her time and been vulnerable in sharing her emotional and inspiring story of how her life has changed."

Ms Williams said her participation in the campaign enabled her to help others realise there are people and organisations within the community who are dedicated to helping others overcome adversity, and realise a better future for them and their loved ones.

Ms Leslie said: "The Charitable Foundation supports projects which have a genuine capacity to make the future better for people facing disadvantage, isolation or marginalisation."

A Lifeline Australia suicide prevention officer held a free community briefing for Peninsula residents at the Peninsula Community Centre in Woy Woy from 12:30pm on March 27.

Ms Holly Sutton will lead the briefing which will cover current Lifeline approved methods for identifying those at risk of suicide and preventative strategies.

"This briefing was for anyone interested in suicide prevention and aims to highlight services available, gaps in the service and facilitate the development of preventative strategies."

Lifeline also held a free suicide alertness training session at the Centre from 9:30am on the same day.

Musicians and singers perform under the stars

Musicians and singers from both campuses of Brisbane Water Secondary College had the chance to perform for their peers, teachers and family on March 28 when the College held A Night Under

The Stars. The evening was an informal student presentation that offered students the opportunity to show off their musical talents. "It was an awesome evening showcasing, once again, the enormous amount of talent Brisbane Water Secondary College has to offer," said Woy Woy campus principal Ms Rebecca Cooper.

Woy Woy Public School has started an SMS service to seek details of student absences from parents and carers.

Parents will be expected to contact the school to explain their child's absence. "This new system will send text messages to parents, guardians and caregivers to notify them of an unexplained absence or late arrival of their child," said principal Ms Ona Buckley. "Parents will be informed by mobile phone SMS each time their child is absent or late when an explanation has not already been provided to the school. "Please note that traditional forms of communication between parents and school staff regarding attendance are still acceptable." Ms Buckley said the Sentral Daily Attendance SMS system was introduced "to ensure parents and caregivers are aware of their child's absence". "We are pleased to be able to offer this service to our families as we recognise that the safety of our children is everyone's highest priority," she said. "At Woy Woy Public School student safety and attendance is a high priority."

Desexing Saves Lives

Subsidised Desexing Program

Central Coast Council is providing eligible residents with a subsidy for desexing their pets.

Residents who are pensioners or receive entitlements from Centrelink and/or the Department of Veterans' Affairs can apply for a Desexing Voucher, valued up to $180, to reduce the cost of the desexing procedure when carried out by a participating vet.

To apply, just complete the Subsidies Desexing Program Application Form and submit it along with proof of current pensioner or low income status. Applications must be made in the name of the registered owner who meets the eligibility requirements.

Application forms are available from centralcoast.nsw.gov.au/pets or from one of Council's Customer Service Centres.

For further information contact Council's Community Education Officer on 1300 463 954.

Photography students make pin-hole camera

Year 9 photography students at Brisbane Water Secondary College Umina Campus have been studying the evolution of the printed image this term.

As part of their studies, students constructed a traditional pin-hole camera out of cardboard to give them a sense of the origins of photography and an appreciation for how the practice and art form has developed since its inception.

"Students were amazed that they were able to capture an image using a cardboard box and photographic paper," said acting campus principal Mr Adam Montgomery.

"Patience was indeed a virtue for this task.

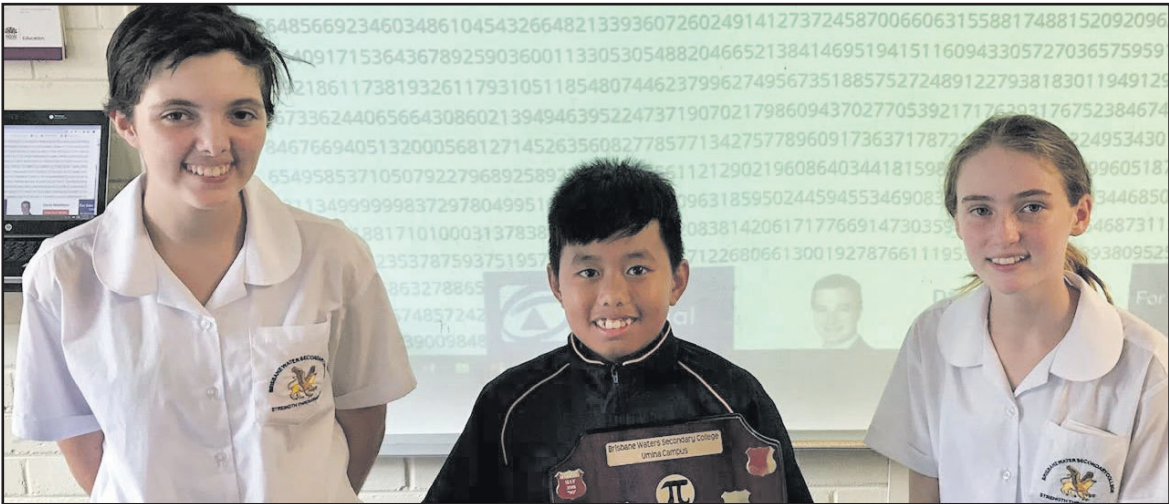

"It required old school technology, innovation, new technologies and some darkroom magic.

"There were no quick fixes for this task and students did an outstanding job," Mr Montgomery said.

BWSC Umina student Nathan Mirasol took out the school's 2019 Pi Day Challenge

3.141592653589793238462643

Students from Brisbane Water Secondary College Umina Campus celebrated Pi Day on March 14.

Pi Day is an annual celebration of the mathematical constant Pi and is observed on March 14 as the date when written month/day (3/14) resonates with the first three significant digits of Pi: 3.14.

Schools across the world have also adopted the Pi Day Challenge where students compete to recall as many digits of Pi as they can.

As Pi is considered an irrational constant in mathematics, it has an infinite number of digits in its decimal representation, meaning there are various ways to calculate the approximate value of Pi.

The Pi Day Challenge required students to calculate as many digits in the sequence as they could.

It was the second time the Umina Campus held the Pi Day Challenge with Year 7 student, Nathan Mirasol taking out the challenge and setting a new record for the event with 102 digits of Pi.

Chinese folk dancers for Harmony Day

Woy Woy Public School was visited by the Central Coast Chinese Folk Dancers on March 20 as part of the school's Harmony Day celebrations.

The dancers put on a number of cultural displays incorporating traditional Chinese dances and traditions including fan dancing and a Chinese dragon dance.

On March 21, the school's Cultural Dance Group performed as part of the Harmony Day festivities.

The dancers travelled to St John the Baptist Preschool to perform a number of traditional songs and dances for pre-schoolers.

Grant for a new garden

Empire Bay Public School has been successful in its bid to receive a grant to create a new garden on school grounds.

"The Parents and Carers Group have been successful with our application for a Bush Tucker Garden," said principal Ms Simone Champion.

"The children and teachers are looking forward to working and learning from this project and we'll keep you updated on the results."

Ms Champion said: "Empire Bay Public School is one of 538 primary schools and early learning centres throughout Australia receiving a Woolworths Junior Landcare Grant to help grow our next generation of environmental champions."

Selling cakes on election day

Year 6 students of Empire Bay Public School held a cake stall fundraiser on March 23.

The fundraiser coincided with the State election with students selling cakes and other sweets to voters using the school's polling booth.

"It was a fantastic effort by our Year 6 team who raised over $800," said principal Ms Simone Champion.

Students learn history from Grandpa Fred

Students from Woy Woy South Public School's class 1/2R welcomed a special visitor on April 3.

"Students were visited by Grandpa Fred as part of their history unit studies on Past and Present Family Life," said principal Mr Matt Barr.

"At 94 years, Grandpa Fred shared his experience as a young boy and then students wrote about the similarities and differences.

"What an amazing way to study history," Mr Barr said.

Meg Lewer and Trena Lowe had works shown at the Waterline gallery

New gallery has launched

A new art gallery has launched in Ettalong.

The Waterline Gallery opened at the Re:Publik Café earlier this March with feature exhibition, Colour and Light, which contained works by 15 Peninsula based artists.

The exhibition was curated by Ms Cheryl McCoy who is also president of the Makers Studio.

"We are extremely satisfied with the result," she said.

Ms McCoy said Colour and Light included a broad range of paintings, traditional printmaking photogravure and weaving.

"Besides the many guests, deputy mayor Cr Chris Holstein also attended and offered support and encouragement for future exhibitions," Ms McCoy said.

Ettalong may not get recycling bins

Ettalong may not get new recycling bins in its main street until June next year, if at all.

It was reported in the last issue of Peninsula News that Ettalong was scheduled to get recycling bins in its main street in the next round of the Central Coast Council's bin renewals program, before the end of June.

However, Council staff have since advised that they are only "looking at" installing the bins and that they will not be installed unless funding for them is approved.

If approved, the funds would come in the next financial year and therefore the bins would not be installed before July and may come as late as June next year.

The report was also incorrect in attributing the sole source of the information to the Council's quarterly report, where in fact the information about the bins in Ettalong was supplied by Cr Chris Holstein.

Author to speak at art exhibition launch

Australian fiction author Ms Judy Nunn will speak at the launch of the Easter Art Exhibition at Hardys Bay Community Church from 3:30pm to 5pm on April 19.

Ms Nunn is a former theatre and television actress, and radio and television screen writer who lives locally.

The exhibition will feature the works of four local artists, Ms Jean Scott, Ms Meg Lewer, Mr Dave Charles and Ms Karen Bloomfield and is open over the Easter long weekend.

The launch night with Ms Nunn is an opportunity to meet the artists.

Organiser of the exhibition Mr Stephen Hinks said: "It's great having Judy speak at the launch."

"She is very popular in our local community and, as someone who loves the arts, it appropriate that she open our show."

The exhibition is part of the Bouddi Easter Festival, which has a number of events over the long weekend.

"The festival has several events in different locations run by various local community organisations."

"There are also great eateries and the national park, as well as the beach and bays."

Students compete

Thirty-six students from Umina Beach Public School competed in the Gosford-Peninsula Zone Swimming Carnival on March 12.

The carnival was held at the Peninsula Leisure Centre with Umina students up against students who excelled in their own swimming carnivals from 13 other schools.

"All our students demonstrated excellent behaviour and sportsmanship during the carnival.

"Our students also performed well in the events which helped our school place second overall in total points scored for the day," said principal Ms Lyn Davis.

Some stand-out results for Umina Beach Public School included the Junior Girls 4x50 relay team taking out first place, the Junior Boys and Senior Girls 4x50 relay teams both taking out second place, Umina students placed first in the Senior Girls 200m individual medley, and broke records in the 8-year-old Girls 50m freestyle and the 12-13-year-old boys 50m backstroke.

Another was named the Junior Girls Age Champion of the carnival.

Women's major singles final

Ettalong Memorial Women's Bowling Club held its Major Singles final on March 15.

Judy King and Tracy Osborne contested the final with Tracy Osborne emerging victorious.

"Tracy bolted out of the blocks, racing to a 9 to 4 lead," said club communications officer Ms Maureen Kerr.

"Judy won the next two ends, getting within four shots of Tracy.

"Tracy won multiples of three, four and two on the next three ends, giving her an 18 to 5 lead.

"Judy won the next three ends score putting the score at 18 to 9.

"Towards the latter stages of the game, it looked as if Judy was making a comeback getting to within six shots of the lead, but Tracy won the last two ends making the final score 25 to 15."

Ettalong competes in summer league

Ettalong Memorial Women's Bowling Club fielded a team in the NSW Ladies Summer League competition last month.

"Tracy Osborne, Corrine Meti, Daphne Lowe and Vicki Young contested at the league at Blacktown Workers Sports Club on March 2-3," said club communications officer Ms Maureen Kerr.

"Ettalong won two of their five games, and only lost by one shot in their third game.

"The eventual winners were Austral.

"Our team fielded the oldest, youngest, and newest player in the league at Blacktown."

Stridsman trains in Colorado Springs

Umina PCYC boxer Anja Stridsman has returned from a two-week training program with the United States Olympic boxing team.

Stridsman flew over to Colorado

Springs in mid-March to take part in the program at the United States Olympic Training Centre.

Stridsman said the experience, while gruelling, was extremely helpful in preparing her for the European competition circuit. "It was so amazing to see so many athletes in one place."

Jemma Smith featured in national campaign

Umina Surf Life Saving Club's Jemma Smith was featured in a national campaign by Surf Life Saving Australia.

As part of its 2019 International Women's Day celebrations, Surf Life Saving Australia has been profiling inspiring women within the surf lifesaving family.

Jemma was one of two women profiled for the 2019 campaign.

Jemma spoke to Surf Life Saving Australia about how she got started with her Umina club as well as her thoughts on the role of women in surf lifesaving.

"I first joined the surf lifesaving movement when I was a Nipper in the Under 6's at Umina.

"However, I had always been around the surf club since I was a toddler as my family was already heavily involved with my pop and mum being life members of the club," said Jemma.

"Currently, I do all of my patrols at Umina and spend each afternoon down the beach training.

"I race most weekends, following surf lifesaving competitions around the country.

"I love competing, not just in surf sports but also in the traditional lifesaving events such as the champion lifesaver competition," Jemma said.

She said she enjoyed how the movement embraced women at all levels.

"I think surf lifesaving is a great organisation for women to be a part of because there is something for everyone and there are amazing opportunities for women to empower each other.

"The surf lifesaving movement is unique in that it encompasses a wide array of activities that women can explore such as patrolling the beaches, training and competing in surf sports or traditional lifesaving events, being involved with Nippers, upskilling themselves through undertaking a variety of different courses, like the Bronze Medallion and so on, as well as, various administrative roles that are vital in helping the surf lifesaving movement run seamlessly.

"It is also a great organisation for women to be a part of because it provides an amazing platform for women to empower each other.

"When women lead in the surf lifesaving movement, it helps to inspire the next generation of young women to follow in their footsteps," Jemma said.

She said her own mother had always been a source of inspiration and support.

"Mum has been involved in surf lifesaving since she was five years old and has taken on a variety of roles within the movement," Jemma said.

THE SHAME FILE

Central Coast Newspapers has a very liberal credit policy for advertisers and realises that from time to time, people, businesses and organisations get into financial difficulty and may need assistance and time to get things back on track. However, some people, businesses and organisations take advantage of this generosity they use advertising but simply don't pay their account after several months and need to be taken to court to do so. From time to time, as necessary, we will name these people, businesses or organisations as a warning to our readers so that they will be wary when dealing with them.

Classifieds advertising rates - in print and on-line

Classified advertising is the cheapest form of newspaper advertising. This newspaper is published on line on the night before publication date, and is read that way by hundreds of people. All advertisements, including these classified advertising pages, appear in full on-line as an additional benefit for free.

See www.CentralCoastNewspapers.com or www.CentralCoastNews.net

Central Coast Newspapers' advertising rates are relatively much lower than in other newspapers and at the same time much larger than in other newspapers, with the minimum size being 50mm X 42mm. Approximately 16,000 copies of each newspaper are printed and distributed every fortnight.

Personal and Not For Profit Organisations

As Central Coast Newspapers are community newspapers, the cost of advertising not for profit organisations' events is subsidised. This makes them the same rate as non business advertisements.

A mono 5cm advertisement only costs $33. Each additional cm costs $6.60 as does colour, and/or a photograph or a logo. Private advertisements need to be paid for at the time of booking.

Business rates

The minimum size of 5cm X a single column only costs $40 + GST in mono and an extra $8 + GST for colour, a logo or a photograph, every two weeks. Most businesses choose to advertise on an ongoing basis and discounts apply for multiple bookings, if they are paid for in full, in advance.

Having an advertisement run for 3 months only costs $215 + GST, for 6 months it is $385 + GST, and for 12 months advertising, the total cost is only $700 + GST - Approximately $14 per week.

Artwork is free and advertisers are encouraged to change their advertisements frequently

The Under 18 Representative Side

Ettalong Memorial Bowling Club's Bailey Meti was a part of a Central Coast under-18 side that claimed the 2019 Metropolitan Shield on March 3.

The side consisted of bowlers from across all Central Coast Zone bowling clubs with Meti the only representative from a Peninsula club.

"Hosted this year by Sydney North West Zone (Zone 10), the Metropolitan Shield was held at Northmead Sports Club where our side competed against the host Zone, Greater Western Sydney (Zone 5), Sydney South West (Zone 12), Central and Southern Sydney (Zone 13) and Illawarra (Zone 16)," said Bowls Central Coast publicity officer Mr Kevin Dring.

"Central Coast opened with a 3-0 win against Zone 5.

"Then they had an outstanding victory against Zone 12, winning two rinks and drawing another, after they lost 11 shots on the first three ends.

"The third game against Zone 13 resulted in two win rinks and one drawn rink," Mr Dring said.

At lunch, Central Coast was leading the event on 16 points but after lunch had to play the two second-placed sides of Zone 16 and Zone 10 who were both on 10 points.

"Halfway through the fourth game, it was tight on all rinks but the side knuckled down and all rinks recorded a win against the second place side.

"Our side could not be beaten for the title," Mr Dring said.

Mr Dring said the win was all the more special because it was the Central Coast Zone's first Under-18 side to contest the Metropolitan Shield.

"The team was responsible for the first Under-18 Side win this Zone has had since Aron Sherriff was a junior."

Southern Spirit's 13b's with their premiership trophy

Southern Spirit juniors finish an undefeated season

Southern Spirit Cricket Club's 13b's squad completed an undefeated season when they defeated Kincumber Avoca Green to claim the Premiership at Alan Davidson Park on March 10.

"Southern Spirit entered the game as favourites," said Central Coast Cricket Association's communication officer Mr Garry Burkinshaw.

"However, they were pushed all the way by the Greens.

"In the end we were just a bit too strong.

"Batting first, Southern Spirit reached 8/91 from their 30 overs with Hunter Tomlinson 23 not out, Jaylen Johnston 18 not out and Ben Willoughby 16 not out leading the way.

"Emma Cormack and Ethan Jones were the best of the Greens bowlers with two wickets apiece.

"Kincumber Avoca Green started steadily with the bat with Jack Bowmaker making 17 at the top of the order," Mr Burkinshaw said.

The steady loss of wickets through the middle order, however, hampered the Green's chase and eventually they were dismissed for 70.

"Sam Cormack was good with the bat scoring 11 while Cameron Woodruff managed to score 10 before being run out in the search for quick runs."

Umina juniors contest grand final

Three Umina Surf Life Saving Club juniors contested grand final events during Surf Life Saving Australia's 2019 Aussies Competition.

The Aussies is the largest surf lifesaving event in Australia and acts as the country's national championships.

The event started off on March 30 on the Gold Coast with the youth championships, with the open and Masters championships running until April 7.

Umina sent several young competitors to the event with Ebony Rayner, Bethwyn Caller and Matthew Kearney all making it through to the grand final of the Under-15 Champion Lifesaver events.

Caller came away with the bronze in the grand final with Rayner placing ninth.

Kearney just missed out on a podium finish, placing fourth.

Bowlers celebrate work of their patron

Everglades Men's Bowling Club recently celebrated the work of their patron Frank Pengelly with a friendly club game.

"Frank has been involved with bowls in NSW for 60 years and was awarded an OAM in 1998 for his lifetime of service to lawn bowls," said club publicity officer Mr Brian Dolan.

"Frank and his wife Noelene have lived on the Peninsula for 20 years after living in the southern beaches of Sydney for most of their lives.

"While bowling for Everglades, he was considered our best coach and he has managed many of our senior pennant sides.

"Frank does not actively bowl now, but still visits the club as often as he can to keep in touch with his friends.

"After nearly 40 bowlers battled for supremacy, Paul Trigg, Bill Vincent and Col Hopping won the day," Mr Dolan said.

Jemma Smith named for three international events

Umina's Jemma Smith has been named in three Paddle Australia teams that will contest international competitions over the coming months.

She was named to both the Under-21's Canoe Sprint Asia Pacific team and the Women's Under-23 World Championship team, as well as the Paddle Australia's provisional 2019 Ocean Racing World Championships Under-23 Women's team.

Jemma will first appear with the Under-21's Canoe Sprint Asia Pacific team when the 2019 Asia Pacific Sprint Cup gets underway at Lake Karapiro, New Zealand, in May.

From there, she will go into training for the Under-23's World Championships being held in Pitesti, Romania, this August.

Her year will be rounded out with the Ocean Racing World Championships in Saint-Pierre De Quiberon, France, from September.

Woy Woy Pirates Swim Club members with the Campbell sisters

All swimmers competed in finals

Woy Woy Pirates Swim Club sent a contingent of young swimmers to the Swimming NSW 2019 Junior State Age Championships held at Homebush Bay Pool from March 30-31.

The club had nine swimmers appear in 29 individual events and two relays.

While none of Woy Woy's competitors came away with medals, all nine entrants contested the finals of their various events.

Casey Stone was the club's highest placing competitor of the event, finishing 11th in the Boys 13's 100m Breaststroke Finals and 12th in the Boys 13's 50m Breaststroke Finals.

On the final day of competition, some Woy Woy swimmers also had the opportunity to meet with Australian Olympic swimmers Cate and Bronte Campbell.

Rugby league players selected for schoolboy teams

Several players from the Woy Woy Roosters Junior Rugby League Football Club have been selected for schoolboys representative teams.

The club's Sam Flakus and Dwayne Jennings were selected for the Open Age Sydney North representative team and Josh Brown was selected for the Open Age Broken Bay Catholic Schools team.

All three boys are long-time Roosters players and are currently playing in the 12/1s combined Umina/Woy Woy team, one of three combined Under-12 teams entered into the 2019 competition.

Cameron Makey, a new recruit to the Roosters 11/1s team, also gained selection for the Sydney North Under-11s team.
